

Resource Grants Available

Educators needed to contribute to the new ASSA website

ASSA is investing in the creation of a high quality website intended to facilitate the sharing of resources and best practice amongst New Zealand social studies teachers. This website will feature downloadable material aimed at enhancing learning across the social studies curriculum. The long term vision is for educators to exchange their resources by uploading their own high quality material as well as downloading those posted by other teachers. To get this exciting initiative underway ASSA is offering grants in exchange for the submission of new resources.

In order to be considered for an initial grant of $200 please submit a brief outline of your proposed contributions. Resources should aim to encourage higher level thinking and be clustered in groups of between 5-10 activities per topic (dependent on size and complexity). Some existing resources that have already been accepted by AASA can be viewed on the beta version of the new website at www.assa.org.nz

Terms and Conditions:

- On acceptance of initial quality submissions, increased or repeat grants may be applied for.
- Resources must be the contributors own work and be made freely available for sharing amongst ASSA membership (inclusive of copyright free images)
- Final acceptance of resources will be made via members of the ASSA committee.
- For further information please contact the committee at assacommittee@gmail.com
