PLD WORKSHOP for Secondary Social Studies Teachers | 2017

Friday 17 November 2017 1.00-4.00pm

Taking social action in Social Studies: What can we learn from current research to support students to take meaningful social action?

Workshop overview

- This workshop shares findings from a two-year TLRI research project¹ which has investigated the social action process within Senior Social Studies.
- Participants will take part in interactive sessions tailored to helping them develop knowledge and confidence in undertaking social action with students in social studies (from Year 9-13). The workshop will include:
 - Setting up for success in social action
 - Using social inquiry to support social action
 - Types of social action: Case studies from schools
 - Navigating NCEA personal social action standards
 - Deepening critical thinking when undertaking social action

Presenters

- Bronwyn Wood (Senior Lecturer, Victoria University Wellington)
- Rowena Taylor (Senior Tutor, Massey University)
- Rose Atkins (Lecturer, Massey University)
- Caroline Wallis, (TiC Senior Social Studies Paraparaumu College)
